

"Now I really know CAREFREE RIDING"

says Mr. R. W. Bobin, Maldon, Essex

"I would like to emphasise the Dandy's splendid performance on hills. Market Hill in my district will test any vehicle ; so much so that buses when negotiating it cause a stream of traffic to gather behind them, all crawling at little better than walking pace. My practice on a machine previously used had to be to whip round the queue, or eventually stall. Now I really know carefree riding as I found out the other day when a bus and three cars started their funeral procession. I like to feel really safe on the road so to give them plenty of room ahead of me, I kept easing back the throttle. The performance really amazed me because I suddenly realised that I had hardly opened the throttle at all, in fact was going so slowly that there was difficulty in keeping my balance, yet the engine pulled me up this 1 in 9 gradient with never a suggestion of a stall. I realised then that I could start off at any time on this nasty hill from any position along its half mile stretch, and what is more need never take that risk of meeting something coming down when previously whipping round, as now I could tuck in behind".
