or what every dealer should know about Britain's best selling moped

IN THE YEAR 1067 wheel tracks, which ran to and from sleepy Saxon homesteads, came into social prominence. Many an irate father was heard to complain that he had been kept awake all hours of the hour-glass by amorous Normans who cut and started their Norman Nippies behind the ancestral barn. Complaints soon ceased, however when the insomniac dads were promised Nippies of their own in the next lot of reinforcements. The price of a Nippy (including tithes) is only £74.9.0. Stand by you Anglo-Saxon dealers for your biggest sales invasion!
